

Impersonation of the Journal of Bone and Mineral Research

Good morning,

We learned Tuesday that a company called Directive Publication is using the JBMR® name to solicit papers. Our publisher OUP will send a cease and desist letter on our behalf, and ASBMR will also send our own cease and desist letter to Directive Publication. We are also putting an item in today's ASBMR e-news reminding authors that submissions always go through ScholarOne and direct them to our website, email, and OUP links. Please share the e-news item with colleagues and especially potential authors.

An editorial board member was quick to alert us of the email solicitations, and it was a reminder that we must all be vigilant to this kind of fraud and risk. I've appended the email he received below. Today one of our JBMR® Editors also received a solicitation with the same wording.

Please let me know if you have any questions.

Many thanks,
ASBMR
